Module Rationale

This module, as all language modules, is aligned with the Common European Framework of References for Languages (CEFR) and aims to prepare for the A1 (partially) level. The course intends to enable students to strengthen their knowledge on the world of hospitality and tourism industry while developing basic language, communication and professional skills in the Russian language.

Aims

This is the third level in a sequential series of Russian Language courses for professional purposes. The course intends to enable students to strengthen and enrich their knowledge relating to the world of hospitality and tourism industry, while developing communication and professional skills in the aforementioned languages.

At this level, students will strengthen both oral and written communication skills, as well as grammatical structure of the language. They will be able to interact when faced with simple and routine tasks requiring simple and direct exchange of information on familiar topics and activities relating to their professional field while providing quality services. Students are expected to function at the A1 level of the Common European Framework of References for Languages (CEFR).

Learning Outcomes

By the end of the semester, students are expected to be close to functioning at the A1 (partially) level of the CEFR. Upon successful completion of the module, students will be able to use the Russian language to :

- present the basic characteristics of a place
 - understand/provide the contact information of a place
 - help the customer to find the place is looking for
 - talk about things customers can find or cannot find in the restaurant/hotel
 - tell the time in a different ways
 - provide information concerning opening hours

- provide things customers are asking for
- speak about something that had happened in the past
- say where they came from
- room categories/duties that people have in the restaurant/hotel
- to ask and get information on the cost of something

Methods of Teaching/Learning

The student's involvement is essential in the course. The approaches held (communicative and active approach) allow the student to acquire the language skills described in the A1 (partially) Level of the CEFR such as written and oral communication, understanding and expression, through a variety of communicative tasks. The student is active and has the opportunity to also develop skills in observation and reflection, as well as learning strategies that gradually lead to learning autonomy. The communicative and active approach, working mainly through a variety of multimedia (CDs, DVDs) and documents, offer role-play, opportunities for group discussions, listening comprehension exercises as well as written comprehension and essay writing. Guest lectures by professionals will help students gain an insight into the current issues affecting the industry. The proposed topics aim to develop and promote the use of communication skills based on the needs of the student's field of professional development (grammar and vocabulary for professional purposes).
